THE WOMEN OF VIRGINIA. - No nobler race of women exist on this earth. They are excellent wives, obedient daughters, virtuous, chaste, modest and intelligent. They are the ereme do le ereme of women kied. We say not this merely to praise them, but because we believe it to be true. They have suffered much, and endured much during the terrible conflict through which our country has just passed. They bore all the privations and bardships they were compelled to suffer, unmurmuringly, patiently, and with the greatest fortifude. In the hospitals they were ministering angels to the wounded and the dying, and in their homes and parlors, they were sisters and friends to the Southern soldiers. We do hope that in the future, some historian will arise, worthy of the task, some Macarlay, who will raint in truthful colors, the noble conduct of Virginia women during the war, the deeds of true heroism they performed, the patient suffering which they endured, the warm out-gushing sincere sympathy which they extended to all Southern soldiers, their self sacrificing spirit, and in a word, their whole unselfish partriotic deportment. It is but their just due that such a history should he written, but it makes no matter if it be not. for they would prefer to live as they will ever do in the memories of the many gallant spirits who are now scattered all over the South, who were the recipients of their gentle ministrations when they were sick and wounded in the hospitals of the State; and better still, the record of their kind deeds has been written by the recording angul of Heaven's chancery, and there they will receive their just reward. We know of many instances which would illustrate the self sacrificing conduct of our women; but we have space to relate only one, which was told to us by a Virginia officer, since the war, and which we believe to be true. It exhibits as much true moral beroism as any noble deed

In 1862, in one of the battles around this | SAMUEL H. JANNEY. city, a soldier, belonging to a Florida regiment, was badly wounded and brought to Howard's Grove Hostital, to receive the precessary medical attention. One day a lady of this city, of wealth and position, on her visit to this hespital, happened to pass by this wounded man, spoke kindly to him, and desired to know how she might alleviate his sufferings. He thanked her and said what he wanted most, was the services of a little boy to fan him. She promised to secure him a servant. The next day, however, having obtained the consent of the surgeon, she had the wounded man removed to her mansion in the city, and there she and her lovely daughters bestowed upon him every attention necessary to his comfort, until his wounds were healed. About this time the surgeon who attended the soldier at her house, informed that lady that his disease had developed itself Phild. into a cess of malignant small-pox, and that he must be removed immediately to the smallpox hospital. Astounded, as she was at this intelligence, she replied: No. Doctor, if there be any danger to us, it is too late now to prevent it; let him stay here, and we will nurse him through it. She and her daughters did nurse him during his confinement with this loathesome disease in the way in which women only can do, until he entirely recovered, and afterwards, in relating the circumstance to one informant, he said he be leved he owed his life to the kind attentions of these gentle ladies. Heaven seemed to smile upon their heroic conduct, and rendered harmless the contagion of the loathesome disease. None of the family was affected by it. Comment is unnecessary. Such deeds speak for themselves. The glory of them will never be forgotten.-Rich. News.

ABOUT WATERFALLS. - A correspondent very ungallantly says that, taken as a class, women can contrive more outlandish and ugly fashions than one would think possible without the gift of inspiration. Take for instance, the waterfall. First, it represented a bladder of Seatch snuff; next, it hung down a woman's back like a convass covered ham; afterward it counterfeited a turnip on the back of the head; now, it sticks straight out behind and looks like a wire muzz'e on a greyhound. Nest ling in the midst of this long stretch of heir, reposes a little battereake of a bonnet, like a jockey saddle on a long backed race-horse.

NEW YORK .- The New York Sun of yesterday thus refers to an exodus going on in that city: "The multitudes of people moving out of the city at this early season are beyond all preeedent. Never in the Listory of New York have there been so many seeking homes in the suburbs. They are moving out at all hours of the day at every ferry on the island. The sub urban villages are filling up rapidly and land owners and capitalists are investing large amounts of money in putting up new buildings to supply the constantly increasing demand. In time, if not this season, this exodus will reduce house rents in this city.

MISCELLANY.-The wholesale merchants of Chicago state that trade in that city has nover before been so lively as during the past few days. Most of the firms are kept busy day and night receiving goods and filling orders from the country. The aggregate sales in four prom-ment branches of goods, at wholesale, for last week, reached four millions of dollars.

There are at present 900 ladies in the Sultan's harem. His favorite wives are: Dourned (the new pear), Hairani (excellent heart). and Eda Dil (the elegance of the heart). The staff of the harem includes 2,300 persons, and 500 tables are set to feed them twice a day, with about 6,000 different dishes. Here is the pithiest sermon ever preached:

"Our ingress in life is maked and bare; our progress through life is trouble and care; our egress our of it we know not where; but, doing well here, we shall do well there."

This distressing affection, which renders all misorable and marriags impossible, is the penalty paid by the victims of impropriety.—Young persons are too apt to commit ex cesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of procreation is lost, sooner by understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent?
